A Cluster of Anecdotes.
The last chapter of Planché's "Recollections," in London Society, contains the following:
"HOOK."

Hook's fame as an improvisator is a matter of social history; but I cannot refrain from giving one instance of his powers, which is as creditable to his heart as his head. There had been a large party at a house of some mutual friends of ours and Hook's neighbors at Ful-ham. It was late, but many still remained, and before separating another song was requested of him. He was weary, and really suffering but good-naturedly consented on condition that somebody would suggest a subject. No one volunteered, he said: "Well, I think the most proper subject at this hour would be "Good-night," composed with his usual facility, but lacking the fun and brilliancy which had characterized his former effusions. Some objection of expression, however, in the middle of one of his verses elicited a ringing laugh from a fine handsome boy, son of Captain the Hon. Montague Stopford, who was staying with his parents in the house, and who had planted himself close to the piano.

Hook stopped short, looked at him admiringly for an instant, then, completing the verse, added, with an intensity of expression I can never forget:

"You laugh! and you are quite right, For yours is the dawn of morning,
And God send you a good-night!"

The effect was electrical, and brought tears into the eyes of more than one of the company while cheer upon cheer arose in recognition of that charming and touching burst of feeling.

THACKERAY.

My acquaintance with Thackeray commenced some time before he joined "The Garrick," and while I was the guest of his cousin, Capt.
Thos. Jas. Thackeray, in the Rue du Faubourg St. Honoré, during one of my many visits to Paris. He was at that time a slim young man, rather taciturn, and not displaying any particular love or talent for literature. Drawing appeared to be his favorite amusement; and he often sat by my side while I was reading or writing, covering any scrap of paper lying about with the most spirited sketches and amusing caricatures. I have one of Charles IX. firing at the Huguenots out of the window of the Louvre, which he dashed off in a few minutes beside me on a blank portion of the yellow paper cover of a French drama. A member of "The Garrick" who was specially unpopular with the majority of the members, was literally drawn out of the club by Thackeray. His figure, being very peculiar, was sketched in pencil and ink by his implacable persecutor. On every pad on the writing-tables, or whatever paper he could venture to appropriate, he represented him in the most ridiculous and degratory situation that could be imagined—always with his back toward you, but unmistakably. His victim, it must be admitted, bore the dissection of his "lively effusions" with great equanimity for a considerable period; but at length, one very strong—perhaps too strong —example of the artist's graphic and satirical abilities, combined with the conviction that he was generally objectionable, induced him to retire from the club, and leave the pungent pen of Michael Angelo to punish more serious offenders than boys and toddlers.

ROGERS.

Rogers had the reputation of being very ill-natured, and many instances have been given by others. I am bound to declare that all the time I knew him I never heard him say a really ill-natured thing of any one; but he by no means denied the accusation. "When I was young," he observed to me, "I used to say good-natured things and nobody listened to me.
Now that I am old, I say ill-natured things, and everybody listens to me." So much has been written about the "Poet of Memory," and so many of his anecdotes circulated, both in print and conversation, that I shall only recite a few that I heard from his own lips, and, as nearly as I can recollect, in his precise words.
My old friend Maltby, the brother of the bishop, was a very absent man. One day at Paris, in the Louvre, we were looking at the pictures, when a lady entered, who spoke to me and kept me some minutes in conversation.
On rejoining Maltby I said, "That was Mrs. — We have not met for so long she had almost forgotten me, and asked me if my name was Rogers." Maltby, still looking at the pictures, said, "And was it?"

A man stopped me one day in Piccadilly and said, "How do you do, Mr. Rogers?" I didn't know him. "You don't remember me, sir. I had the pleasure of seeing you at Bath." I said "Delighted to see you again—at Bath."

It was the fashion formerly to make your guests drunk, and there was a gentleman staying in a country house, and they made him very drunk, and they tarred and feathered him, and put him to bed. In the morning he awoke, and he wasn't sober then. He rose and went to a cheval-glass, and he looked at himself and said, "A bird, by —"

A HUSBAND RENDERED DESPERATE.—An outraged husband at Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, where female suffrage and the political and social appearances pertaining thereto are recognized, denounces the female jury business through the Cheyenne Leader, and in justification offers a pertinent scrap from his domestic history. His wife was summoned and empaneled as a juror in an important case. When night came, the case not being concluded, the husband applied to the court to have his wife sent home, as there were several small children there requiring her attention—the smallest, in fact, being in a starving condition, owing to the fact that it had not been habituated to the use of the bottle. But the husband's request was denied. The judge said the jury could not be separated. The husband then requested permission to send the infant to the mother. This was also refused, on the ground that the law does not permit a thirteenth person in a jury room, and there is no statute to show that an infant in arms is not a "person" within the intent and meaning of the law.

The desperate husband then attempted to induce the court to send all the jurors to his house for the night; but the effort was a failure, and the husband was informed that quarters had been provided his wife at the hotel, and that if he wished to speak to her for a moment he would have to take the place of the cook. The husband went home. How he got through the night is not told; but when he learned the next day that the trial was likely to last a week, he straightway proceeded to employ the best looking housekeeper and cook in the county. At last accounts his wife was still on the jury.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

SIMMONS' LIVER
The symptoms of Liver Complaint are, uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general constipated, sometimes alternating with laxation, accompanied with nausea, considerable loss of strength, and a feeling of fullness, or indigestion, which ought to have been done. Often complaining of weakness, debility and low spirits. Sometimes a feeling of heat, or burning, in the liver, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most involved. Cure the source with

THE FOLLOWING WILL BE READ WITH INTEREST:
Under date of April 26th, 1871, Dr. HENRY J. ROGERS, of Sharp Street, Baltimore, an eminent physician, writes regarding

CRYSTAL DISCOVERY:
"It affords me much pleasure to bear testimony as to the efficacy of your Crystal Discovery.
Some years since, while in India, I suffered from a severe fever peculiar to the country. On my recovering, a patch of hair on the left side of my head became perfectly white, without at all affecting the remainder. To remove this unsightly appearance, I had recourse to various preparations, both in Europe and in this country; but they all had one great defect—they dyed the hair black. Now, with your Crystal Discovery, I can get the desired shade—the natural color of my hair being dark brown. I consider your Discovery the best preparation I know of."
Yours truly,
HENRY J. ROGERS.

Now as the fact becomes more patent every day that the various dirty and filthy preparations advertised as Renewers, Restoratives, &c., are but compounds of Sugar of Lead and Sulphur, and therefore should be shunned by all who value their health, it is scarcely a matter of surprise that the demand for NATTAN'S CRYSTAL DISCOVERY, admitted to be perfectly harmless, and yet accomplish all, and more, than the poisonous articles claim to do, should have increased so rapidly. It restores the color and growth of the hair positively in a few days; strengthens the roots, makes an excellent dressing, soiling neither clothes nor scalp; but on the contrary it gives the scalp a pure and cleanly look, removing all dandruff and scurf. It is the most economical preparation in use. Put up in large bottles, at one dollar.

SEWING MACHINES.

HOWE'S
IMPROVED
Lock-Stitch Sewing Machines

Are world-renowned for durability and simplicity of machinery, the perfection of the tensions, and the unparalleled wide range of work they are capable of performing without change or readjustment.

At the great "Exposition Universelle" in Paris, in 1867, they were awarded the highest prize —a massive Gold Medal—over 82 competitors, and the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor was conferred on Elias Howe as the original inventor of the Sewing Machine.

The growing appreciation of their characteristic excellence by the intelligent people of this country was clearly shown by the unprecedented sales of the Howe Sewing Machine during the past year, being far in excess of those of any other one patent.

More than 1000 of these excellent machines are in daily use in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and of this very large number a single case of dissatisfaction cannot be found.

They make the "Howe," or "Lock-Stitch," which has the same beautiful appearance on either side of the fabric sewed, and they are the only machines that make this beautiful stitch to perfection.

A branch office has been recently established at No. 105 King Street. If you are prejudiced in favor of any particular machine, at least examine the Howe before you purchase. Remember that Mr. Howe was the original inventor of the Sewing Machine, and gave twenty years of his life to perfecting this machine.

Every Howe Machine is warranted for ten years' constant use by the company, and is kept always in perfect order by the local agency.

Purchasers are thoroughly instructed at their residences, by competent instructresses, in every variety of plain and ornamental sewing.

An efficient lady operator will be in constant attendance at the office, and machine stitching of every description will be neatly and promptly executed.

THE BALTIMORE PARLOR QUEEN.
S. B. SEXTON'S
New Patented Self-Feeding Base-Burning
PARLOR FIRE PLACE STOVE.

Mr. S. B. Sexton is the original inventor of the Illuminating Baltimore Fire Place Heater.
His several succeeding patents have been improved, and the result is the superior of them all.
It excels all the popular Fire Place Stoves in beauty of finish, tasteful carving, and in heating power. It is the result of twenty-two years' practical experience in inventing and manufacturing Fire Place Stoves, and combines all the improvements of our former Stoves, with additional improvements made this present season.

This Stove is a decided success. Several hundred of them were put up in dwellings during the latter part of the Fall and during the Winter, and we have received many testimonials from the highest praise for powerful heating capacity and economy in the consumption of fuel.

THE DINING ROOM QUEEN.—We have added a new Fire Place Stove to our list this season. This Stove is suitable for dining rooms, parlors, etc. It is very ornamental and would answer for parlors also. It has the convenience of a large oven, which can be used for warming plates, and heating irons, as well as baking and boiling.

We also manufacture the BALTIMORE PARLOR HEATER, which are Top-Feeding and Self-Feeding Stoves. They are beautifully finished and of great heating power.
